NATASHA WOOD ROLLING WITH LAUGHTER

Written by Natasha Wood and Beverly Sanders
Directed by Cameron Watson

After a sell-out run at the Edinburgh Festival, critical acclaim in London and Los Angeles, and an incredible performance at Her Majesty's Theatre Haymarket in the West End of London, the witty, sassy and determined Natasha Wood brings her hilarious one-woman play to the Nottingham Playhouse for one night only.

Natasha has had it all - a quirky family, a fairy-tale marriage and dream jobs all over the world. Except that she's lived her entire life from a wheelchair, having been born with Spinal Muscular Atrophy, leaving her too weak to lift even a pint of beer. Her story is an empowering, humorous and unique take on life, lingerie and sex with a little disability thrown in. For the last 18 months, Natasha's journey has made audiences on both sides of the Atlantic cry a little and laugh a lot - join her for one night only in her home town of Nottingham, as she rolls straight onto stage at the Playhouse.

"slick and polished - Natasha Wood is a motorised Mae West" (The Scotsman)

"a story told with such strongly personable delivery that you leave believing you have just spent an hour in the company of a close friend" (The Stage)
